[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

Mr. FESSENDEN moved to amend by making the authorized bonds redeemable in ten years and payable after twenty, thirty or forty years.

The bill was discussed at length by Messrs. Morton, Edmunds, Fessenden, and others.

During the discussion Mr. MORTON delivered a prepared speech, the burden of which was that according to the statutes the Five-Twenties should be paid in currency. He, however, favored the bill.

Mr. COLE took the same view.

Mr. FESSENDEN expressed the contrary conviction, and advocated adherence to the Republican platform.

Mr. HOWARD coincided with Mr. Fessenden.

Mr. CAMERON favored deferring the subject till after the election.

Mr. CONNESS thought the Democratic platform should be met now, and the faith in the Government vindicated.

Mr. FESSENDEN'S amendment was rejected without division.

Mr. RAMSEY moved to strike out the last section of the Committee's amendment, legalizing contracts made specifically paid in coin. Rejected—6 to 29 Messrs. Comeron, Harlan, Osborn, Howe Ramsey and Wade voting yea.

Mr. WILSON offered a substitute for the third section, looking to the issue of fifty year five per cent. bonds, the bondholders to pay one-half of one per cent. taxes, and that a certain increasing amount of the public debt shall be paid each ten years, beginning with ten millions at the end of the first ten years.

About five o'clock the Senate went into Executive Session and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Messrs. Schenck, Hooper and Niblock were appointed a Committee on Conference on the tax bill.

The following bills and joint resolutions were introduced:

He moved the previous question, which the House refused to second, and the resolution went over.

Mr. DELANO introduced a joint resolution providing that United States mints and branches shall continue to refine gold, silver and bullion, and that no contract to exchange crude or imported bullion for refined bars shall be made until authorized by law, and repealing section five of act of March 3d, 1853, and section three of act of February 20th, 1861. He moved the previous question, which was seconded, and the joint resolution passed—94 to 34.

Mr. RANDALL objected.

Mr. ARNELL asked leave to offer a resolution respecting the prevalence of outrages at the South, declaring it was the duty of the Government to extend protection to all its faithful loyal citizens, white and colored, and providing for a Select Committee of three to investigate the matter.

Messrs. RANDALL and BROOKS objected.

Sessions for debate only were ordered for every evening this week.

The House refused—68 to 62, not two-thirds voting in the affirmative—to suspend the rules in order to allow Mr. Schenck to offer a resolution making the Civil Service bill a special order.

The Senate bill relating to the Freedmen's Bureau and providing for its discontinuance was debated.

An amendment was offered providing for the discontinuance of the Bureau in all States immediately on becoming represented in Congress. Rejected.

Mr. ALLISON moved to amend the bill by making the discontinuance absolute on the 1st of January next. Adopted and the bill passed.

Mr. DAWES, from the Committee on Elections, reported the credentials of Nathaniel Boyden and Oliver S. Dockery, members elect from North Carolina, had been examined and found in due form, but these gentlemen were unable to take the test oath, Mr. Boyden having been a member of the North Carolina Legislature under the Confederate Government, and Mr. Dockery having served three months in the Confederate army in 1861. The political disabilities thus incurred had been relieved by act of Congress, and the Committee recommended the oath prescribed for persons whose disabilities had been removed should be administered.

The motion was agreed to, and Messrs. Boyden and Dockery had the oath administered, and took seats as members.

Mr. WASHBURNE, Illinois, moved to amend by making it two hours. Agreed to.

The House, by a vote of 84 to 57, agreed to go into Committee of the Whole on the Tariff bill.

Mr. MOORHEAD opened the debate in favor of the bill, and in the course of his remarks spoke of the special agent of internal revenue, Mr. Wells, as the guardian of the interests of the foreign manufacturer and foreign agents in New York.

Mr. GRISWOLD, in reply said, Mr. Wells was in favor of a proper tariff.

After speeches by Messrs. Maynard, Driggs, Garfield, and Pike, the Committee arose and the House took a recess.

Evening Session.—The House met again at half-past seven o'clock, in Committee of the Whole, and was addressed by Mr. WASHBURNE on the financial and tariff questions, in favor of paying the debt as denominated, in bonds, and against such a tariff system as impoverishes the West for the benefit of the Eastern manufacturers.

ATTORNEY GENERALSHIP.

WASHINGTON TOPICS AND GOSSIP.

It is thought the President will allow the Electoral college bill to become a law without his approval.

Mr. Johnson will probably take his residence in one of the Southern States next spring, as he is said to be desirous of obtaining a seat in the United States Senate.

Congress will no doubt endeavor to effect an adjournment next week, as all the Southern Representatives will be admitted within ten days.

The Conference Committee will report the tax bill on Wednesday.

There is little posibility of the passage of the army bill this session.

Randall, McCulloch and Seward oppose the Democratic platform, while Welles and Browning are pleased with it and the ticket.

It is reported that Senator Hendricks, who is to run for Governor of Indiana, will not speak for Seymour and Blair.

There is no doubt that a movement is on foot among the Johnson men to nominate Chase and Ewing for a third party Presidential ticket.

A Committee of Virginia Republicans, headed by the Lieutenant Governor and the State Treasurer, are urging Congress to make immediate provision for an election in that State. They oppose the pending House bill because it re-opens registration, and a great number of ex-rebels will attempt to register under the amnesty proclamation. A bill authorizing an election in accordance with the views of these gentlemen will be introduced in the Senate.

Judge Fisher, a prominent Republican, arrived from Jackson, Miss. He reports that the official canvass is nearly complete, and shows a Democratic majority of 7,000. The Republican Committee is engaged in investigating the election returns, and claim to have proof of frauds to the amount of over fifteen thousand votes. A reign of terror prevails in all the interior counties, and the assassination of several capitalists is reported.

Col. M'Kay, of Georgia, arrived from Atlanta to ask Congress for the removal of all disabilities from a number of Union members of the State Legislature, in order to enable that body to get into working order. United States District Attorney Fitch, of Georgia, Democratic delegate to New York, is the candidate of his party for United States Senator. It is said that twenty-five thousand dollars have been raised in New York to enable him to buy up enough votes to secure his election.

The Congressional Executive Committee are actively engaged in preparing for the campaign. They have assurances that ample funds will be at their disposal, and have made arrangements for the publication and distribution of campaign documents.

The Reconstruction Committee do not expect to have any more measures of importance to bring up before the House.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHARLESTON, July 13.—Gen. Canby issued an order to-day that military officers in the State cease exercising any civil authority when the President proclaims the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment, at which time the prisoners under charges will be turned over to the civil authorities, and all prisoners serving out sentences by military commissions will be held. Writs of habeas corpus from the United States Courts are to be responded to, but to writs from State Courts reply is to be made that the prisoner is held under the authority of the laws of the United States, and that jurisdiction is exclusively in the United States Courts.

COLUMBIA, July 13.—In the Legislature to-day, a bill passed a second reading validating the Provisional Government of the State. A bill was introduced for the preservation of Homesteads.

The election for Senator takes place to-morrow. A sharp contest will ensue as there is said to be considerable division in the Republican ranks.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

The tobacco factory of George E. Hutchinson was seized to-day for non-compliance with the revenue law, and Hutchinson held to bail in three thousand dollars.

The Grand Jury to-day reported a bill against Capt. Donaldson for murder in the first degree for shooting Henry Anderson on the steamer Great Republic. They also reported a bill against Capt. Barr for being accessory to the act.

General Grant, accompanied by General Dent, visited the Soldiers' Orphans' Home at Webster, ten miles west of here, to-day, and spent several hours with the children, all of whom were introduced to him. The party were met by Gens. Edwards, Chipman, M'Neil and Shephard, and Jas. C. Yeatman, and other gentlemen interested in the home. The General expressed much gratification at the visit, and the orphans gave him three hearty cheers at parting.

To-day has been one of the hottest of the season, the mercury ranging from 95 to 100 in the shade, according to the locality.

LOUISIANA.

Inauguration of Gov. Warmouth.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—Mr. Warmouth, Governor elect, was inaugurated to-day in the hall of the House of Representatives. There were present the members of both houses. The lobbies were densely packed. The oath of office was administered by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. A number of outgoing and incoming officials were present on the platform. Governor Warmouth's inaugural address was very brief and well written, but not very explicit as to the future course of his administration. He says that he refrains, at this time, from entering into any discussion of the measures deemed of importance. He urges, however, immediate measures for the repression of the lawlessness and disorder now existing in the State, and says that "we want peace and order, and without it we can have no prosperity."

ATLANTA, July 13.—Mr. O'Neil's resolution to investigate the eligibility of each member is the only business before the House. The investigating committee was in session the entire afternoon. Have your disabilities been removed? No Senators have yet been excluded.

The Coal Miners' Strike.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, PA., July 13.—A telegram received by the Governor from Pottsville shows that the reports of outrages in the mining regions are all false. It seems almost positive that the reports were all circulated by interested parties to raise the price of coal.

Cholera at Havanna—Submarine Cable.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HAVANNA, July 13.—Cholera in this city is decreasing in violence and extent. The Nara succeeded in raising a mile of the new telegraph cable, but the machinery subsequently lost hold on the cable and it sunk to the botton.

He especially supported Blair, because he had promised revolution, &c.

A Fearful Story of Murder and Revenge in the Far West.

A shocking story of brutal murder, and swift, lawless punishment among a party of miners travelling on foot over the Rocky Mountains to the Sweetwater mines, is reported in one of our Western exchanges. Hess, a Frenchman, and Armstrong, a Nova Scotian, had quarreled, but apparently became reconciled, when Armstrong re-opened the disagreement, and threatened Hess for taking some of his tobacco. During that day the party entered a dangerous and difficult canon, through which they wound along a narrow ledge of rock, several hundred feet above the bed of the stream, which ran along at the foot of that fearful precipice.

At the point of the greatest danger, where the party had to travel in single file, and several yards apart, Armstrong watched his opportunity to dodge behind a ledge of rock unobserved, and thus fall behind the others. Hess was the last man in the file. As he drew near to the place where Armstrong was secreted, the latter stepped forth and followed his companions without seeming to notice him. Presently he knelt down as if to tie his shoe, and Hess, unable to pass, stopped within a few feet of him. The next moment, turning about to pick up his bundle, which had been thrown aside upon the ground, by a sudden change of movement, he seized the unsuspecting Frenchman and hurled him over the edge of the terrible abyss.

Some twenty or thirty feet down from the face of the precipice the wretched man lodged in the branches of a scraggy hemlock tree, which grew out of a crevice in the rocky wall, and might from thence have been rescued if assistance had been nigh. But there was none. How the murderer could summon the hardihood to stoop down and watch the fall of his victim from that dizzy height, we cannot imagine. Yet Armstrong did look down the cliff, perhaps to assure himself that his murderous work was well done, and saw poor Hess still desperately maintaining his hold upon life, instead of lying a shapeless mass at the bottom of the canon. The fiendish spirit manifested itself still further. He got fragments of rock and cast them down upon the poor man, until his lifeless body toppled over the yawning abyss below; then Armstrong arose and pursued his journey.

The whole act was seen from a distance by another of the party, who was apart hunting for game; and after they had got into camp at night he told the story, when Armstrong was seized and charged with the murder, and he did not deny it. A part of the company were in favor of taking him with them through to the settlements, to be tried by the civil authorities; but the majority were determined to allow the murderer no chance for escape; and so, about an hour before midnight, Armstrong was conducted to the top of a cliff which rose like a wall to the height of 180 or 200 feet, half a mile in the rear of the camp. Having bound his hands and feet, they cast him over into the black abyss, out of which no cry returned.

HOTEL KEEPERS, according to a recent published opinion of Commissioner Rollins, are liable to special tax from the first day of the month in which they engage in business as such, without taking into consideration the amount of their respective gross receipts, unless the Assessor shall be satisfied beyond any reasonable doubt that the gross receipts of any proprietor of a hotel will not exceed $1,000 annually, in which case no assessment need be made. When the special tax has been paid, and it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Assessor at the end of the special tax year that no liability has been incurred, he will assist the taxpayer to prepare a claim for the refunding of the tax paid.

A Submarine Race—A Novel Contest—Three Divers Walking Under Water for a Prize.

Among the most attractive and novel features of the day's (July 4th) programme was the submarine exhibition given in the harbor under the immediate direction of Mr. G. W. Townsend, the gentleman who is engaged in blasting out in the channel. This being an entertainment entirely new to all, it naturally attracted a very large concourse of both sexes, and was probably witnessed by 10,000 people, who assembled in multitudes upon the piers, on both sides of the harbor, on the decks of ships, steamboats and tugs, while hundreds of smaller craft, gaily decked with bunting, were drifting about in the vicinity of the submarine track, all of which were densely crowded with men and women, anxious to see "what they should see." While engaged in watching the preparations that were being made to get the submarine "walkists' in readiness for their tramp, the entire party seemed to have forgotten that part of the programme was to be an explosion under water, and, as if glad of the opportunity to startle and surprise those of the company who were afloat, Mr. Smith, the electrician, without any warning, communicated the electric spark to the twenty kegs of powder he had previously sunk in the channel, when a terrific explosion took place, throwing a large volume of water from ninety to one hundred feet into the air, while the whole surface of the water within the radius of an hundred feet of where the explosion occurred, was most fearfully agitated. This was a grand debut for the performers, and added largely to the interest that all were manifesting in a most impatient manner in the other grand feature of the entertainment, the walking match.

The divers being duly equipped in their armor, lay quietly hanging over the gunwales of their attending boats, looking more like submarine monsters than they did like "walkists" contending for a prize. Precisely at eleven o'clock and twenty-five minutes their heads disappeared from the floating stage, which was anchored a short distance from the head of Long Wharf, and the men started on their perilous tramp of 2,100 feet to a like stage, which was anchored off the Cunard docks, on the East Boston Side. There were three entries in this race, viz: George Phillips, of Marshfield, who has been five years in the business; William Lloyd, of Boston, who has been ten years a diver, and Jacob Palmer, of Boston, who has also had an experience of five years. Each man was provided with a guiding line to direct him on his course, and each diver was also provided with a small boat provided with air pumps, which were kept constantly at work to supply them with air. Extending from each boat to the diver was a life line, which is always in charge of some particular person, who acts as "tender" for the diver whenever he is under water. Directly after being lowered, they set out on their tramp, and, at the outset, Mr. Palmer seemed to be making the best progress. Directly, however, he began to fall behind, and was soon a long distance in the rear, which was caused, as was subsequently ascertained, by his guiding line getting foul upon a rock. Lloyd made good headway, but could not keep up with Phillips, who proved to be the champion submarine "walkist," Phillips completing his journey in 17 minutes, while Lloyd was 18 1-2, and Palmer 21.

On the arrival of each diver at the floating stage, he was provided with a ladder, up which he climbed till near the surface, when he was assisted out and immediately dismantled, all three appearing to be as fresh as when they first entered the water. The crowd cheered, the divers waved their flags, the guns boomed from every quarter of the harbor, and thus terminated a novel and exceedingly interesting feature of the day's programme. To Mr. Phillips was awarded a prize of $75, to Mr. Lloyd a prise of $50, and to Mr. Palmer a prize of $25, all of which were fairly earned, their walk under water proving to have been a much greater success than any of the champion "walkists" of the city have made in this vicinity on dry land. What they undertook to do they accomplished, and the public was neither deceived nor disappointed.—Boston Evening Gazette.

Abyssinian Treasures and Trophies.

The stolen treasures and trophies of the Tower of London will receive a considerable addition from the Abyssinian spoils. Among Theodore's jewels are two crowns, one for State and the other for ordinary purposes. The State crown is of gold, rising to a height of about eighteen inches in three tiers; it is inlaid either with precious stones or admirable imitations. The work is very fine, and the weight such as only the head of a powerful man could bear. The common crown is of dark silk velvet and was, no doubt, at one time very fine, but age has dimmed its brightness. The robes are gorgeous, the State robe being made of gold tassel, worked in floss, and lined with a rich brown satin. The pattern is very chaste and the workmanship can scarcely be excelled in any civilized country. The second robe is one which Theodore expressly ordered to be made for her Majesty, Queen Victoria, but "unavoidable circumstances" intervening, the black monarch kept it himself for some time, and finally gave it one of the German artisans at Magdala, who gave it up to Sir Robert Napier. The materials of this robe are not so rich, nor are the ornaments as chaste and valuable as those of the State robe; but the filagree work of Indian pattern is exquisitely done. The seal of the King is one of an ordinary character, and bears the name and title of Theodore. It is supposed to have been made in London. There are also the royal slippers of a shape somewhat after the Japanese; they are covered with gold scales, and appear to have been frequently worn.

HON MARTIN WELKER, member of Congress from Ohio, is said to have had his ambition aroused for the first time when attending court at Wooster, twenty or thirty years ago. Judge Dean was on the bench. Young Welker heard the proceedings of the court with delight. Going out he said to a boy friend, "I mean to be a judge, if I live!" And twenty years after he ran against the same Judge Dean and beat him.

AN ANCHOR dropped from the car of a balloon as it cut loose at New Bedford, on Saturday, and striking a Taunton boy named Maltran, fractured his skull. It then cut in the clothing of two other boys and carried them about forty feet, when the aeronaut caught the line. They fell in some trees, and though taken up insensible, will probably recover.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

ONLY A COUSIN.

BY MRS. M. A. KIDDER.

I sat in the arbor one morning in June,
Most patiently waiting for you, Belle;
While the birds were all singing in merriest mood
And the skies wore the hue of the blue-bell.
I caught your bright look as you came up the lane,
With your sweet little bouquet of posies;
And saw that the blush on your beautiful cheek
Outrivalled the red of the roses!

You sat by my side that fair morning in June,
When the sunlight came down like a glory;
And dropping your lashes low over your eyes,
You told me a tender love story.
It thrilled me as never another could thrill,
(And I've listened perhaps to a dozen.)
And made me remember, who used to forget,
That I, Belle, was only your cousin!

As the vines crept around us that morning in June,
Each cluster an emerald curtain
To shut in sly Cupid and shut out the world,
Of your love, Belle, my heart was most certain!
You, with your soft little hand in my own,
Told me your love for another.
I was brave, though my beautiful hopes were all crushed,
And I tried to behave like a brother!

I sit in your parlor this morning in June,
No pleasanter thing can I do, Belle,
While your children are singing in merriest mood,
And your husband is chatting with you, Belle;
Yet the world never can seem quite what it was
When we sat in the vine-covered arbor,
And watched the white sails through the glistening trees,
As the vessels came into the harbor!

—When a young man in some of the old countries goes a courting, the first question the young woman asks of him is: "Are you able to pay the charges?" —The prevailing styles of short coats and painfully tight pants have just been introduced in San Francisco by a fashionable New Yorker. He created much sensation. Foul Play—Row Between the Authors, Reade and Boucicault.

(London Correspondence New York Tribune.)

Two dramatic versions of Foul Play are performing at different theatres, the joint authorship of Charles Reade and Boucicault having ended in a quarrel. The partnership between the two was originally formed for what may be called commercial purposes. Mr. Reade could command a high price for a novel, and of the novel he was to be the author. Mr. Boucicault could command a high price for a play, and was to dramatize the play when written. The novel appeared by instalments in Once a Week, floating the new series of that periodical into prosperous seas, and creating an undoubted sensation. Presently Mr. Boucicault sent word to Mr. Reade that he wanted to furnish part of the text. Mr. Reade assented. Mr. Boucicault wrote two numbers. When the first had been printed and the second was partly in type, the publishers of Once a Week notified Mr. Reade that the contract for a novel was with him, and not Mr. Boucicault; that they expected him, and not Mr. Boucicault to write it; that they should decline to print any more copy supplied by the latter or to pay Mr. Reade, unless Mr. Reade wrote his own novel. Thus entreated, he resumed his pen, and the whole book is in fact his, a few chapters excepted. Naturally Mr. Boucicault was offended, but chose to be offended with the wrong person; with Mr. Reade instead of with Messrs. Bradbury & Evans, the publishers of Once a Week. He broke off all relations with Mr. Reade, set himself to work to dramatize the novel, refused to allow Mr. Reade to see any part of his work, or to consult with him, and finally announced the drama of Foul Play for production at the Holborn Theatre sooner than it could be completed in Once a Week. Mr. Reade thereupon made another drama for himself out of his own novel, and brought it out at the theatre in Leeds. This latter I have not seen. Mr. Boucicault's is thoroughly bad. The story of the novel is knocked endways, as Mr. Fullalove would say, and I believe Mr. Boucicault got his drama together before he knew the denouement of the novel. If you grant the principle of Mr. Reade's story, it is wonderfully well done, and Helen Rolleston is a fine creature. Mr. Boucicault has been in such a hurry to put his piece on the stage that he has taken little care of plot or character. The plan can hardly be intelligible to one who has not read the novel, and is extremely uninteresting to one who has.

RIVER NEWS.

The weather yesterday was oppressively hot and close, hardly a breath of air astir, and at two o'clock p. m. the thermometer was up to 96 in the shade. The river has undergone but little change, twenty-one inches in the channel by the Monongahela marks.

The Charmer was to have left St. Louis on Saturday for Pittsburgh.

The Lorena has given up her trip from Cincinnati to New Orleans for the present.

The Camelia was expected to reach St. Louis on last Saturday.

—An exchange says: A steamboat clerk kissed a lady the other day. It cost him fifty dollars and costs. We know a clerk that kissed one a few years ago and has been taking care of her ever since.

—A Cincinnati paper of Saturday says: Mr. Jesse Burdsal, Clerk of the Wauanita, was in the city, yesterday, en route from St. Louis to Pittsburg. He says Captain Shuman will be here in a day or two. The boat is laid up at St. Louis.

—A St Louis disdatch under date of Friday says: Captain John N. Bofinger and others have purchased the steamer Mississippi from the Atlantic & Mississippi Steamship Company. She will be put in complete repair for business. The Henry Adkins takes the United States lumber, &e., from Omaha to the forts on the Upper Missouri river, at $1,40 per 100. The Ida Stockdale passed Omaha for Fort Stevenson yesterday. The Agnes, from Fort Benton, has arrived at Omaha. The river is stationary at that point to-day. A big rise is reported coming down.

—The pilots and the Northwestern Union Packet Company seem to be at no better understanding than at the beginning of their differences. The pilots claim that Davidson agreed to give them a certain price for the season, and that during the hot contest with the opposite line, when the company was losing money, the pilots submitted to a decrease of salary for the sake of the general cause; but when the company undertook to reduce to a very meagre figure and then, as they say, attempted to crewd second-rate men into the boats to the exclusion of No. 1 pilots, the boys left indignant.

—We clip the following from the Cincinnati Gazette: The report of the Local Inspectors in reference to the explosion of the Magnolia last March, shows an absence of water in the middle boiler, and also an intense degree of heat under it. The larboard and starboard boilers presented a remarkably good appearance. with no defects whatever, nor indications of bad usage, and apparently had a sufficient supply of water at the time of the explosion. The Inspectors declare that Marcus J. Stevens, first engineer of the Magnolia, is highly culpable for neglecting to try the water in all the boilers; that he knew of the peculiarity of the action of the fire under her boilers, which made it difficult to keep them regularly supplied with water, and that this peculiarity was never made known to the Inspectors, else a remedy might have been applied. The explosion was directly occasioned by the supply of water being forced from the middle to the outside boilers, owing to that boiler being subjected to a more intense degree of heat; and the water, in returning from the other boilers, coming suddenly in contact with the heated iron. The license of Marcus J Stevens, first engineer, is revoked.

—We take the following from the St. Louis Democrat, of Saturday: The particulars of the killing of Henry Anderson, colored, in the baggage-room of the steamer Great Republic, on the night of her arrival at this port, are familiar to every one conversant with local matters. It will be remembered that Captain Sam. Barr, Jr., chief clerk of the Great Republic, was with Captain Donaldson that night, and the principal witness, the negro boy Grover, testified that he was in the baggage-room at the time the fatal shot was fired.....On Thursday, Chief of Police Lee received, from what he conceived to be reliable authority, information that the Grand Jury, now in session, had found an indictment against Captain Barr (as well as Captain Donaldson), for the murder of Henry Anderson, and at once ordered Special Officer Smith to effect his arrest. Captain Barr was found at the Southern Hotel about four o'clock, and at once taken into custody. He is still in durance, and his wife had an interview with him yesterday. The arrest is a matter of no little surprise to the Captain's friends.

GOLD closed yesterday in New York at 141¼.

THE more politic Democrats would withdraw BLAIR, but they dare not so affront their Southern friends. FORREST, WADE HAMPTON, WISE and VANCE want BLAIR right where he is, and they will keep him there.

GOV. WISE, of Virginia, that notoriously unreconstructed rebel, denounced the Tammany resolution, that secession is a failure, as a falsehood, at a Democratic (!) ratification meeting in Richmond the other night. He declared that secession was more than ever living. WISE was undoubtedly right, and that is why Southern Democrats ratify the nominations and the platform of SEYMOUR and BLAIR.

WISE supports BLAIR because he has promised revolution. So he told the ratifying Democracy of Richmond last Saturday night. These Southern Democrats speak by the book. They know what the Democratic nominees and platform mean, and the North will know it, too, and repent it in suffering and bloodshed, if she surrenders the government to the party which is thus pledged to another rebellion.

DOWN go the public funds, down goes the public credit under Democratic threats of revolution and Democratic pledges to the rebels of the South. Read the money articles of the New York, London and Continental journals, and see the depressing effect of these disloyal proceedings. Democratic speeches, platforms and candidates have damaged our credit so seriously already, that it is a question if, instead of any sort of redemption, they have not rather purposed the utter destruction of our National debt.

MR. CHARLES H. CARROLL, in a powerful article on the Currency Question, contributed to the Merchants' Magazine, makes this observation:

"I believe that capital has increased so much that, but for the repulsive power of the debt currency, [greenbacks and national bank notes,] we should have at this time eight hundred millions of gold and silver in circulation, instead of which we have a mixture chiefly of poverty and embarrassment, amounting to fourteen hundred millions, maintaining average prices at 75 per cent. above money value, real estate being now in the great fever of inflation, other things having subsided a little to make room for it."

Every student of political economy foresaw that real estate would be the last to feel the effects of inflating the currency, that its appreciation would be higher than that of any other article, but that it would inevitably recede in price about in proportion as the currency should be restored to a normal and healthful condition.

WHEN we predicted, last week, that a movement for the organization of a third party would follow the defeat of Judge CHASE as an aspirant in the Democratic Convention, some of our readers could hardly credit it as a likely or even a possible event. But the rumors and foreshadowings in that direction are rapidly gathering shape, and a public demonstration of the parties to this movement may appear at any moment. It can hardly be deferred for many days. These parties are, 1st. The Chief Justice. 2d. The Conservative politicians, a class of old fogies who are the fossil remains of several former generations. 3d. Mr. A. JOHNSON. 4th. Mr. S. P. CHASE. These gentlemen will make up a party painfully respectable for its limited numbers and exalted self appreciation, and will conduct the canvass, until November, with the same high-principled disregard of all the probabilities against their success, which the same gentlemen manifested in their more restricted canvass before the Democratic Convention. The popular vote for the Chief Justice will hardly equal that given him by the delegates, while the people will retain the President at exactly the figure with which the delegates left him off, that is to say, nothing. As the regular Democratic candidates, CASE and EWING would have run vastly better than SEYMOUR and BLAIR, but, as the choice of a third party, they can make no impression whatever. The citizen who does not vote for SEYMOUR this year will vote for GRANT—and there will be an astonishing number of citizens of this class.

THE ISSUE.

The Democrats, by the selection of their candidates for President and Vice President, no less than by their declaration of principles, avow the purpose to enter upon an era of fresh agitations, and, if need be, to resort to brute force for the accomplishment of their designs. While the Republican members of Congress, in full accord with the convictions and sentiments of their supporters throughout the country, are restoring the revolted States to all the rights and privileges they formerly enjoyed in the Union, and in the course of a few weeks will succeed in that object, the Democrats avow that if they shall be entrusted with the control of the national government they will undo this settlement, incur all the perils that would inevitably come by wresting from the blacks their newly acquired political rights, and restore, as far as possible, the condition of affairs that existed before the rebellion.

Looking at the matter calmly, and in view of all that has transpired during the last four years, it is difficult to comprehend what the Democrats really could or would do, if they should be entrusted with the administration. If they should discard, as they declare they would, the reconstructed governments existing, or soon to exist, in the Southern States, what governments would they recognize, and attempt to restore? Would they set up the old Constitutions of those States, and re-establish, so far as they may be living or accessible, the men who held offices under those instruments? If so, those Constitutions would conflict with the amendment to the Federal Constitution abolishing slavery, as well as with other changes made in that organic law. The terms of the old office-holders have fully expired, multitudes of them are in their graves, and many more scattered abroad, so as not to be gathered together again. To attempt re-organization on this basis, would be absurd, and involve hazards from which the country may well shrink. If this plan should be adopted, after incalculable turmoil and trouble, Constitutional Conventions would have to be held in the Southern States and fresh elections be held under them.

That we may not be fairly charged with censoriousness in imputing revolutionary designs to the Democrats, we beg to call attention to certain facts attending the nomination of their candidates.

There is no room to doubt but the nomination of Mr. SEYMOUR to the Presidency was "set up" beforehand. The elaborate speech he made just prior to the assembling of the National Convention was his bid for the favor of his party. His repeated declinations of the honor he coveted, deceive no one. What was intended by the managers has been accomplished.

Why was Mr. SEYMOUR nominated? Neither for pre-eminent abilities nor uncommon services. He was never in either branch of the Legislature of his State, nor in the Senate or House of Representatives of the United States. Nor yet has he had experience in any diplomatic position. He has simply served as Governor of New York. Neither in performing the functions of that office nor in the conduct of his personal affairs, has he disclosed executive abilities of a superior order. A man of common powers, fluent, polished, graceful, he was nominated in part for his address, but more for the peculiar type of his political opinions. An ardent disciple of Mr. CALHOUN, he stood by the South through all the heated discussions that preceded the rebellion, and through the four years of the great conflict.

MR. BLAIR'S revolutionary letter, which we published yesterday, procured his nomination to the Vice Presidency. The equally extravagant and incendiary speech he made subsequently, was greeted with the wildest approval, and is now waking responsive echoes from one end of the country to the other.

The fact is manifest that the Democrats are dissatisfied with the settlement made and making of the rebellion. Believing the insurrectionists to have been in the right, they mean to release them from all penalties and infelicities resulting from their defeat; and this they mean to do at the hazard of plunging the republic back again into the horrors of civil war.

On the other hand, the Republicans, through their National Convention, and by the declarations of their candidates, stand pledged to peace, progress and prosperity, for all the States and for all classes of inhabitants therein. They want no more internal strife and bloodshed, but desire as speedily as possible to close all the wounds made by the war, that the new career of the nation may illustrate the excellence of unity, liberty and fraternity.

DELUSIONS VANISHING.

Upon the emancipation of the blacks in the Southern States, a large part of them rushed to the conclusion that liberty found its best expression in exemption from work. That was the exemplification of liberty with which they had been familiarized from the first dawn of intelligence upon them. Their owners had practiced idleness, regarding productive labor as menial and degrading. They had themselves been constantly overtasked to make up for the inefficiency and general worthlessness of the dominant caste. Consequently they longed for rest—for the cessation of constant muscular strain—more than for anything else. Repose epitomized to them all that is most desirable in life.

In the nature of the case, this was a delusion that could not last. Work was preordained for man, as essential not only to his physical development and well-being, but as contributing most effectually to his moral soundness and intellectual training. It is a homely line, but as true as homely, that "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do." If the men who fill the jails and penitentiaries had been brought up to regular and systematic employments, so as to make work pleasant and congenial, comparatively few of them would have fallen from the rank of virtuous and honored members of society. As a mental instructor, moreover, work has no superior. The minds of most men have been trained and expanded through their fingers more than in all other ways put together. What ideas they have came to them chiefly through their manual employments; and this training ranks next in value to that physical subsistence which, in general, depends mostly, if not exclusively, on muscular exertion.

The blacks are coming to understand that nothing is so hard or unprofitable as idleness. During the present season they have worked with more regularity and persistence than at any former period since their enfranchisement. Henceforward they may reasonably be expected to settle down more and more perfectly to industrial pursuits, contributing their full proportion to the production of the nation.

In like manner the whites, when their slaves were taken from them, did not know which way to turn or what to do. To work, they knew not how, and to beg they were ashamed. But necessity was inexorable. They began to feel the pressure of that general law—sometimes interfered with through abnormal arrangements, such as Slavery and other forms of monopoly—that he who will not work shall not eat. At first they did not comprehend this primal decree, and would not fall into harmony with it. Such contumacy brought upon them fearful retribution. Recently we read the report of an Episcopal disocese, which showed how the aristocracy in most of the parishes had been peeled and riven. In many of them, formerly famous for wealth, culture and refinement, not a white parishioner was left. If spared by the scythe of war, they were too proud to work in the localities that had witnessed their opulence and arrogance, and had emigrated to the South, West, or to the midland Territories, or to the Pacific Coast. Wherever they have gone, the law of labor will find them out, and make them do their shares in the regular on-goings of the human race.

But, this is not the point we had specially in view. The Southern whites have found out, as well as the Southern blacks, that they must work or starve; and they are working, both men and women. Never before were there as few drones in the Southern States as this year, and the number will be diminished still farther. This newly acquired industry on the part of the whites is of great value in the general estimate of the future progress of the country. It stands foremost among the indications that all the natural advantages of the Southern States will be brought into play and be vitalized, putting an end to the jealousies formerly existing there, thus placing the two sections for the first time in harmony as to the revenue systems to be enforced, and preparing the way for enduring unity and concord.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Harvesting goes on rapidly in Central Ohio and South-western Pennsylvania, and is about to commence in the northerly districts bordering along Lake Erie. Wheat is considered a finer crop than for five years past, the heads being large and well-filled and the grain very sound, plump and bright. The crop is not so remarkable for its yield per acre, but rather for its uniformity, covering the ground evenly, and being everywhere about up to the same standard. The breadth of ground cut over is rather in excess of the past three years, and the yield is, as we have said, better than in the five years since '63. The belt of country on the parallel between this point and Columbus, Ohio, will probably thrash out at least sixty-six per cent. more grain than last year.

Oats are filling fast and promise an extra crop, the stand being even, and the growing grain has that dark luxuriant color which, no bad weather intervening, will in three weeks carry the best harvest for years into shock.

Barley is doing well, but is much more than usually light. We hear an universal complaint that a good share of the seed failed apparently to germinate. We think the crop will fall one-third short of last year's, in the district specially referred to, but the grain will be full, and, with favorable weather, bright and of the best merchantable quality.

Corn, every one remarks, has come forward, under the extremely favorable weather of the past few weeks, faster than at any time before remembered. The look for this important staple, as late as June 20th, was very unpromising, the plants having a poor color, the stand being very uneven and the replant seeming to struggle for a puny existence. But since that date, we have had something even better than the old fashioned corn weather; the hot days, the even sultrier nights, and the seasonable showers which have been equally distributed along through this district, have made the corn entirely a different thing. The fields are evened up, the growth has been most luxuriant and healthy, and, to day, not only the crop on the alluvial soil is good, but the upland corn was never more promising, and many farmers are of opinion that, while three weeks since it was ten days behind, it is to-day fully up to the average for the middle of July. The breadth of ground planted is quite as much as in any previous year, and, with a good July and August, the result will be everywhere satisfactory.

Grass is the least satisfactory of any crop that we have noticed. Clover has been very unequal, and none of it as rank and luxuriant as in former years. This grass is generally cut and taken care of through the district noticed. Timothy has a very even stand, but it is uniformly thin, bottom and top, and very few farmers will cut as much as two-thirds the hay from the same land as last year. We observe a more general inclination to cut this grass earlier, before the head turns brown, and we think the farmers, who have already commenced its cure, will find their account in it by next spring, in the improved condition of their stock.

Reports from the districts between this and the Alleghenies on the East, and the Lake on the North, coincide with what we have stated of other sections. We may therefore congratulate, not only our agricultural friends, but the entire community, which is equally, if not quite as directly, interested, upon the unusually promising prospects of the season for breadstuffs and feed. With no serious backsets, the crops of '68 will go far towards making the country again independent.

SEYMOUR AND BLAIR are to revive and restore the "lost cause." So said high authority, the highest, in fact, among the National Democracy, an ex-rebel Governor, at a Democratic ratification meeting, last Saturday night, in Richmond. It was a just and true thing said in the most appropriate place. The walls of Libby, vocal no longer with the wail of starving prisoners, the embrazured windows of Castle Thunder, no longer haunted with the skeleton faces of the loyal victims of rebel cruelty, the sandy strand of Belle Isle, no longer ringing with the crack of the rebel rifle aimed at some poor Union soldier already near perishing from despair, as he hovered near the dead-line, the halls of the old Capitol now no longer graced by rebel oratory and dignified by a rebel President, the streets and squares of Richmond made historically infamous in the annals of treason against the best government on earth, and of inhuman brutalities which the laws of honorable warfare denounce as execrably vile—that was the spot for the re-inspired spirit of rebellion to uplift its voice and glorify the advent of new hopes from the action of the National Democracy. SEYMOUR and BLAIR are yet to redeem the lost cause—"all the Confederacy fought for"—so said Gov. VANCE. All the shed blood of the loyal people, the three hundred thousand dead, the maimed still living, many of whom often wish to die, those three thousand millions of treasure spent, and that assassinated President, all these are to go for naught. SEYMOUR and BLAIR are to give up all that the Union won, in restoring to the Confederacy what it lost. Well, these things may have been true enough to say in Richmond, but the time has hardly come yet to say them in Pennsylvania or Ohio, with impunity. What say you, Democratic reader?

WHO IS VALLANDIGHAM? The chief of Northern copperheads, a secessionist so ultra, violent and disloyal, that the Republic expelled him from its borders during the war. Let it be remembered that he turned the current in SEYMOUR'S favor in the New York Convention.

Who is WADE HAMPTON? The most violent of South Carolina traitors, the most arrogant of her old Democratic aristocracy, and the most brutal of Confederate officers towards loyal prisoners. Remember that he and such as he effected the nomination, for the second place, of the revolutionary Jacobin, BLAIR.

Men are judged by the company they keep!

THE Post indulged, yesterday, on an extensive scale, in the luxury of poultry. The repast was prepared for Pendleton, but was, unwillingly, used for Seymour.—Pittsburgh Gazette.

Leaving out the word "unwillingly," the above is a fair hit and we gracefully acknowledge the corn. The Gazette also says:

"This entertaining unwelcome guests, is disagreeable, but cannot be helped in politics any more than elsewhere."

Of course this last paragraph alludes to the position of the "oldest" at the time Andrew G. Curtin was renominated for Governor.—Post.

As the editor of the GAZETTE did all he could to secure the nomination of Mr. CURTIN both times he was up for Governor, he fails to see the wit or honesty of the fling in the last paragraph above.

Seymour and His "Friends."

Five years ago this month, on Tuesday, July 14, 1863, Horatio Seymour addressed the rioters in New York city in these honied phrases:

"My Friends—I have come down here from the quiet of the country to see what was the difficulty; to learn what all this trouble was concerning the draft. Let me assure you that I am your friend. (Uproarious cheering.) You have been my friends, [cries of "Yes, yes;" "That's so!" "We are, and will be again!"]; and now, I assure you, my fellow-citizens, that I am here to show you a test of my friendship. [Cheers.] I wish to inform you that I have sent my Adjutant General to Washington to confer with the authorities, and to have this draft suspended and stopped. [Vociferous cheers.]

"I ask you as good citizens to wait for his return; and I assure you that I will do all that I can to see that there is no inequality and no wrong done to any one. I wish you to take good care of all property as good citizens, and see that every person is safe. The safe keeping of persons and property rests with you, and I charge you to disturb neither. It is your duty to maintain the good order of the city, and I know you will do it. I wish you now to separate as good citizens, and you can assemble again whenever you wish to do so. I ask you to leave all to me now, and I will see to your rights. Wait until my Adjutant returns from Washington, and you shall be satisfied. Listen to me, and see that there is no harm done to persons or property, but retire peaceably."

This is an excellent campaign document It needs no comment.

The New Catholic Dioceses.

The following is an accurate designation of the boundaries of the new dioceses and Vicariate erected in the Province of Baltimore:

I. The See of Wilmington comprises the State of Delaware, the counties of Cecil, Kent, Queene Anne, Caroline, Talbot, Dorchester, Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico, in the State of Maryland; and the counties of Accomac and Northampton, in the State of Virginia, being the entire peninsula between the Chesapeake and Delaware Bays.

II. The See of Scranton comprises the counties of Bradford, Luzerne, Lycoming, Monroe, Pike, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Wayne and Wyoming, in the State of Pennsylvania.

III. The See of Harrisburg comprises the counties of Clinton, Centre, Mifflin, Franklin, Cumberland, Adams, York, Dauphin, Northumberland, Columbia, Lebanon, Lancaster, Montour, Union, Snyder, Juniata, Perry and Fulton, in the State of Pennsylvania.

IV. The Vicariate Apostolic of North Carolina embraces the entire State of the same name.

—Letters from Shanghai, dated May 26, state that the frigate Shenandoah had returned from her mission in search of facts relative to the destruction of the American schooner General Sherman. It appears that the Sherman had been attacked on the coast of Corea, and returned the fire, when she was assailed and captured, after which she was blown up. All on board perished.

FOREIGN NOTES.

A PARIS correspondent writes:

Let me note a tendency to revert to the surprises of the eighteenth century, which has begun to appear. You may remember there was not a garden in those days without its machinery borrowed from the stage. If you walked in one direction you set a fountain to play which drowned you, or you made a sedate statue rise, or you fell into some pit. The Dutch especially were conspicuous for the laborious ingenuity of these arrangements, and I believe they have never ceased to be popular in Holland. Gardens of this sort seem to be coming into vogue here. Electricity is made to play a considerable part in them. There are artificial flowers mixed with natural flowers; you cull one of the former, it immediately opens and a bird escapes from it; or you attempt to cull it, a giant appears. It would seem the fairy plays have not been without influence in reviving the old taste.

M. JULES SIMON, one of the deputies for the department of the Seine, has just printed, in a volume of nearly four hundred pages, five elaborate discourses delivered during the present session of the Chamber, on the following subjects: Separation of Church and State; liberty of the press; abolition of standing armies; schools, and right of meeting and association. To these he has added a preface of thirty-eight pages besides preliminary notes.

A HUNGARIAN nobleman named Michaelowitch is going on foot from Pesth to Paris. The long walk is undertaken in consequence of a bet regarding the hospitality of the Hungarians, Germans and French. Baron Michaelowitch did not take a cent along, but relied exclusively on the hospitality of the people by the wayside. At the latest accounts he had already reached the French frontier

RECENTLY, at Leipsic, the young musical phenomenon who was born without arms, played on his violin an andante of Beriot's and a "Romance sans Paroles" of Myerbeer's. He holds the bow with the two first toes of his left foot, and operates on the strings with the right toes. The instrument of this extraordinary performer is placed on a little bench in front of him.

SOME of the German railroad companies employ good-looking and respectable young ladies at their ticket and freight offices, and the railroad management say that the change is a most pleasant and profitable one. The young ladies are most conscientious; and quarrels which, as long as men employed, occurred very frequently at the ticket offices, have now entirely ceased.

THE Independence Belge believes there is no example of such excessive and long continued heat in the month of May as that which has just visited us. According to the bulletin of the Brussels observatory the maximum temperature of the month has been thirty degrees cent. (86 Fah.) and the minimum thirteen degree (55 2 5 Fah.)

THE Crown Princess of Prussia, responding to the sympathies evinced by the Berlin public on the attempt made upon her brother's life, has caused a letter from Mr. Arthur B. Gaig to be printed in the Spenersche Zeitung. It is dated Sydney, March 27, and contains details of the deplorable event.

THE sovereign Prince of Lichrenstein has decided on disbanding his army. In the old German Confederation he was bound to keep together a body of ninety men as a contingent, which was a heavy charge on his treasury. At present he is determined to be freed from it, and so he disarms.

THE Independence Hellenique says that a young Cretan girl has just arrived in Athens dressed in military costume, in which she has for a long time taken part (without her sex being known) in the insurrectionary war.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

When the system is once affected it will not rally of its own accord; it needs help it must be strengthened and invigorated; this is especially the case when the

KIDNEYS, BLADDER OR URINARY ORGANS

Are affected. For immediate relief and permanent cure,

DR. SARGENT'S

Diuretic or Backache Pills

Are a perfectly safe and reliable specific. This well known remedy has effected a large number of speedy and remarkable cures, and have never failed to give relief when taken according to directions.

Dr. Sargent's Backache Pills

Are purely vegetable, and contain no mercury or calomel. They do not exhaust the system, but on the contrary they act as a tonic, imparting new tone and vigor to the organs and strengthening the whole body. These Pills have stood the test of thirty-five years, and are still gaining in popularity.

STRENGTHEN THE DEFENCES.

Malaria, the most deadly enemy of health, is everywhere active in July and August. The blazing sun is decomposing and fermenting every species of vegetable and animal abomination, and poisonous gases that depress and infect the system are universally present. On the prairies, in the swamps, in the woods, and in the midst of crowded cities, this development of the elements of disease is now going on. In short the human body is in a state of siege, and reason and common sense suggest that its DEFENCES BE STRENGTHENED. A stimulant, a tonic, a corrective, an alterative are required to put it in perfect trim, and these four grand requisites are combined in HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. A man must be made of steel not to be affected by the morbid matter set afloat in the atmosphere by the rays of the almost vertical sun. Nine-tenths of the community are premonished at this season by debility, indigestion or exertion, nervousness, &c., that they need something to build them up and regulate their animal machinery. Do they want to "fight it out on that line all summer," or to achieve an immediate victory over their unpleasant symptoms, and secure that first of Heaven's blessings—"a sound mind in a sound body?" If the latter is their desire let them resort to the BITTERS without delay. That agreeable and potent vegetable renovative will soon restore the system to its balance—regulating the liver, strengthening the stomach, gently relieving the bowels, and giving vigor, cheerfulness and energy to the whole frame. These are proven facts. No man who reads the testimony on which they are founded can for a moment doubt them.

CURE OF FISTULA.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases, which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which I had been advised to "let alone," on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten it on my lungs. I knew that the peculiar mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to the discharge, which I believed was a salutary provision of nature to get rid of some morbid condition of the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying the system, and local applications to the diseased part must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I found also that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.

Yours, gratefully I. C——.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, July 13, 1868.

The unusual heavy shipments of coin during last week and the absence of any commercial paper on the market kept the gold stiff all last week, and caused an advance to-day of one per cent. The imports continue to be about five millions per week, whilst the exports scarcely reach two millions in currency value. Under such circumstances, and with no cotton to come on the market it can not be expected that gold will decline for some time to come. In addition to this the question of paying our bonds in currency, and taxing the interest on bonds is now discussed in the press of Europe, and the lower quotations for bonds there show sufficiently what foreign bond holders think of this movement. Any material shipment of bonds from abroad, would give speculators in gold sufficient cause of running up gold four or five per cent.

city banks show an increase of deposits and loans, but a decrease in the legal tenders, thus showing a deceptive easy market, which might change almost over night.

Government bonds have been very dull to-day, although quotations did not materially decline; the large holders of bonds do all in their power to keep up quotations in order to be able to sell with as little loss possible. The statements of the New York

Stocks are dull and inactive and slightly lower; but few of the western shares are changing hands to investors, and the clique stocks only to the extent of showing quotations. Express shares are lower. Mining shares dull, and border State bonds a fraction off.

Money easier, but business is dull.

Closing quotations as received by Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows:

Gold, 141¾; 1881 bonds, 113¾; 5-20s, 1862, 113¼; 1864 do, 110½; 1865 do, 111¼; new, 1865 and 1867, 108⅝; Ten Forties, 107⅜; Seven Thirties, 108¾.

—Closing quotations received by James T. Brady & Co.:

Gold, 141¾; U. S. 6's, 1881's, 113¾; 5-20's, 1862, 113¼; 5-20's, 1864, 110½; 5-20's, 1865, 111¼; 10-40's, 107⅝; 5-20's, January and July, '65, 108⅝; 5-20's, January and July, '67 108¾; June 7-30's, 108¾; July 7-30's, 108¾; May Comp., 1865, 119,-30.

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, July 13, 1868.

CATTLE.

The supply of Cattle was comparatively light to-day, and with an average local demand and some inquiry for shipment, the market was a little firmer than last week, and prime fat Cattle ruled a shade higher. The great proportion of the Cattle on sale were from Pennsylvania and Ohio; but two car loads from Chicago, and, as a general thing, they were mostly inferior in quality and condition; as a consequence, those who were fortunate enough to have good stock experienced no difficulty in closing out, and that, too, as we have already mentioned, at an advance over last week's prices. For common and medium cattle, prices were but little, if any, better, though the demand was more active, and holders did not have as much difficulty in selling as they would have done, had there have been a full supply on sale.

As will be seen by reference to sales, prime to extra fat cattle sold at from 7½ to 8, but very few at the outside quotation; and fair to medium at 6½c to 7. Stock cattle may be quoted at 4½ to 5½, according to quality and condition. The number of cattle sent to this market from adjoining counties has been quite large for some weeks past; much larger than was expected, and, we have doubt, there are plenty yet to come. Of course, they are not as fine a grade of cattle as have been shipped here from Chicago during the past winter and spring, though we have seen some very good steers, good enough for the great majority of our butchers, sent in here from Washington, Green and Butler counties. Ohio is also beginning to ship pretty freely to this market again, and scarcely a week passes but what there is a drove or two from Iowa, Indiana and Kentucky.

Peter Hartman sold 25 head Washington county steers at 5 to 7.

Hamilton had 16 head of cows and heifers—up to 10 o'clock, unsold.

Hazlewood & Blackstock sold 20 head of Belmont county, Ohio, steers for Charles Shomaker at 6 to 7,75; 24 Ohio steers and heifers, for another party, at 4,50 to 5,50, and 13 for Conklin at 5 to 7.

M. Verner sold 34 head of Ohio stock steers at 5 to 5,75.

L. Rothchilds 16 head fair to prime Ohio steers at 6,60 to 7,50.

Kraus & Haas 35 head—prices not mentioned.

Jas. Hanlin 13 head Washington county stock at 5,75 to 6,50.

Smith & Talmage 30 head mixed Ohio stock for C. Hudson, at 5,50 to 7,25.

Greenwald & Kahn 73 head Ohio, Penna. and Missouri cattle at 6,75 to 8. (It was reported that Aleck made very handsomely out of a drove of 59 head of Missouri steers, which he bought low.)

Marks & Traurman report having retailed 71 head of Penna. and Illinois cattle at 6 t 7,50.

Myers & Needy retailed 68 head of Ohio cattle at 6,80 to 8.

L. Shamberg wholesaled 26 head of commonish stock for Wallace to Moses & Co. at 5,25.

Holmes, Lafferty & Co. sold 40 head—(about half of them from the stock farm of J. H. Glasss, in Beaver county, this State)—at 5¾ to 7,75.

Nicholas Carr sold 18 head of Chicago stock for Dolan & Co. at 6,50, and 20 head of Ohio stock for Davis at 5,25 to 6,25.

Hedges & Taylor 18 head of prime Ohio steers for Keenan, at an average of 7,75; 20 not quite so good, for Snyder, at an average of 7c.

J. Davis sold 28 head of common Ohio steers for Horst at 5,50 to 6.

Kerwin sold 15 head of good Washington steers at 7 to 7,50—bought from Hamilton last week at 6,50.

Lobman & Zeigler report having sold 28 Kentucky steers at 6¾ to 7,75.

J. B. Forney had 28 head of Washington county stock, for which he was offered 7c, and we are inclined to believe that he accepted.

Stakely & Bro. 17 head of all kinds, bulls, cows, stags and steers at 3,50 to 6.

Campbell wholesaled 59 head of prime Missouri steers to Greenwald & Kahn, on private terms; understood to be 6,50.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

There was an unusually large supply of Sheep and Lambs on sale, and with no material improvement in the demand, the market was a very hard one for drovers, many of whom scarcely realized here what they paid for their stock in the country. There were one or two eastern buyers in attendance, but they, like the butchers wanted to buy cheap; and besides it is difficult for on eastern man to find a drove of good sheep, as the butchers, pay for the privilage of sorting in the pens. Prices compared with last week have still further declined and as will be seen by reference to report of sales, there were but very few sold above 3½ cents per pound—an extra lot might have brought 4 to 4¼. Lambs ranged all the way from $1,00 to $3,00 per head.

McMillan & Kerr, sold 99 head of good Washington Co. Sheep, averaging 85 lbs to go east, at $3,60 per cwt; retailed 30 Lambs at $2¾ to $3,00 per head.

Rynn had 50 head Washington Co Sheep, common, which he expected would average $1,75 per head.

Jacob Emmel reports 300 head at $1,75 to $3;00 per Sheep, and $1,50 to $2,50 for Lambs.

Beeler reports 80 head at $1,50 to $3,00 for Sheep, and Lambs at an average of $2 per head.

Adam Eckert 84 head Lambs, at $1,25 to $3,00 per head; 97 Sheep for Sargeant at $1,50 to $3,00.

J C Weller 33 head sheep, at $2,50 to $3,00 and 40 Lambs at $1,75 to $2,00.

Emery 104 head from Lawrence Co. Sheep, at $2 to $3, and Lambs, inferior, at $1,25.

Vandervert 84 head at $2,00 to $3,50 for Sheep, and $2,25 for Lambs.

Fowler & Walter 300 head from Penna, and Ohio; Sheep at $2 to $3 and Lambs at $1,25 to $2,50.

Stakely & Bro. 217—Sheep at $2 to $3, and Lambs at an average of $1,75.

J B Forney 128 Washington Co. Sheep at an average of $3 per head.

Kaufman 100 Washington Co. Sheep at $1,50 to $3 per head.

Lintz 112 head at $2 for Sheep and $1,50 for Lambs.

Shaw 100 Sheep at $2 to $2,50, and Lambs at $1,75 to $2.

Seymour sold 120 head at an average of $3,50 for Sheep, and $2,25 for Lambs.

HOGS.

The market for this class of stock is quiet, the demand being exceedingly light, which is generally the case at this season of the year, though prices are firm at $9 to $10 per cwt., for fair to prime heavy averages.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBUGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, July 13, 1868.

CRUDE—The Crude market, to use a very common expression among oil men, was decidedly sick to-day, and there is a cause apparent, Antwerp having declined three and a half francs. Notwithstanding thre were offers to sell at very material concessions, buyers were very timid, and so far as we could learn were unwilling to take hold even at the reduction. Spot oil, which last week sold readily at 15, was offered to-day we were assured at 12½ without finding takers, while for future deliveries, there were no figures mentioned. We are also cognizant of offers to sell at $5 per bbl, delivered on board cars at Venango City, which compared with last week, shows a decline of a clean dollar per bbl. Indeed, the market has turned a complete somersault, and with it some of the dealers; the "bears" are now in the ascendency, and that they will make the best out of this, their opportunity, we have not the slightest doubt.

REFINED—The bonded oil market was also very dull and weak to-day, and prices have still further declined. There were two lots of 1,000 each sold for the last half of July at 33, and we heard of 33½ having been offered for the first half of August. As will be seen these figures compared with last Wednesday and Thursday, show a decline of 2 to 2½ cents per gallon, or about one dollar per bbl, which is a very heavy decline within such a short time. There is not a great deal of oil offering, however, as our refiners are pretty near sold up for the early months, and they are not disposed to do much in the late months, at this stage of the game, on a declining market.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil to-day were as follows:

O. B. Jones.....	480	W. McCutcheon	50

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

Questions from the Country.—Where to Buy Ayrshire Cows.

(O. V. Street, Road Station, Chester county, Pa.)—I want to purchase some Ayrshire cattle for milk dairy, and cannot procure any in this neighborhood. Do you know where I can get three or four cows and a bull of this stock? When would be the best time to buy them? Is it best to buy pure breeds or grades at the prices asked for each?

As I have no experience with any but the common stock of my region, I have hit upon the Ayrshires as probably the best for my use. I shall be glad to have your opinion on this subject.

There are plenty of Ayrshire cattle in New England, and in the milk regions of New York. From our own observation we would go to Hartford with full confidence of finding what you want in the vicinity of that city, or at Wetherfield, a short distance from Hartford. At all of the State fairs which are held in autumn you may be sure of finding fine herds on exhibition, though usually not for sale except at high prices. It would probably be a good plan to go to New England Fair, (to be held in Connecticut this year,) and then to follow home the best herd. From that herd, after the fair, or from others in its neighborhood, you might hope to get what you want at reasonable prices. You could probably buy as cheap in the fall as at any other time, and it is the best season for transporting any stock.

By all means buy pure stock, even at very high prices. If your object is to create a herd for yourself, by the time you have twenty cows it will make but little difference whether you have paid $500 or $1,500 for your original stock, and the difference in value at that time will be very great. In breeding any stock, it is the cheapest in the end to have pure blood, even at very high prices, for the extra value of the calves, either for your own raising or for sale, will soon make up for the extra cost of the first purchase.

Concerning the breed: If your object is to sell milk, you have made the best selection. The Ayrshires are easily kept, are perfectly hardy, and yield immense quantities of very good milk. If, on the other hand, it is your intention to make butter, the Jerseys (Alderneys) are the best, giving more and richer cream, in proportion to the amount of food consumed, than any other. From your location we are disposed to think that butter making would be your best business, if you can give it the personal attention it requires. You would probably be able, also, to sell your surplus stock to better advantage than if you kept Ayrshires, as the vicinity of Philadelphia is getting to be well known as a good place to buy Jersey cattle.

About Melon Bugs.

(M. C. P., Staten Island, June 24, 1868.)—"What will keep the squash beetle from eating my melon vines? I have tried all the remedies that I have seen suggested without much effect. A coating of soot, on the ground and on the plant, does no good—the beetles scrape away the soot to get at the vine, and seem to eat it as greedily as before anything was put upon them."

The striped bug, commonly known as the cucumber bug, can be effectually kept off only by a fine netting. The least troublesome way to apply this remedy is to set a small round or square box, eight or ten inches high, over the hill, leaving only room enough for the leaves to form well, packing damp earth around the outside of this so firmly that the box may be drawn out without breaking the wall, and then covering the hole with a small piece of mosquito netting, to be fastened down by putting earth on its edges.

Of course, the same thing may be effected by surrounding the hills with bottomless boxes, covered with netting. This, however, is more expensive than the former plan, which requires only a single box to be used as a mould.

It is a good plan before planting to prepare the cavity for the seed by building up the earth around a large flower pot, which, from its conical form, may be easily drawn out of the mould,

"Fish guano" or the refuse of fish oil works, is said to be so offensive in its odor that a very little of it is sufficient to drive away all insects. If the material is accessible to you it would be well to try it.

Gov. Wise of Virginia on Agriculture.

We commend to our readers the following extracts from an address, delivered by ex-Gov. Wise, before the "Virginia Horticultural and Pomological Society," in October, 1867:

"With every variety of temperature, climate, soil, production, power, minerals, navigation, game and fishery, sites for residence, sublime and beautiful scenery, and hygeian springs, there is no people of the habitable globe who cannot find the choicest localities in Virginia to suit their respective tastes, habits and pursuits, however various and opposite, better than anywhere else on earth, now to be settled and developed. These various large, rich, grand, beautiful and healthful sections, of countless capacities and resources, still lie waiting for skill and labor to come and develop their inexhaustable treasures. They were scarcely touched by the plantation system, which, with its African slavery, has been demolished forever. It developed nothing but its own evils, and that they could be prevented in the future only by civil war and its blood and crimes. If that be done, and if that could only be done by the war, and if civil liberty be not destroyed by the victors of the war, then the war was not in vain, was not so much a crime as might at first appear to the short-sighted and the selfish; and it may more than compensate for all its blood and battles, lost and cost, if made to cease in all its effects, now that its main cause has ceased and its main result has been accomplished. If the war can only be regarded as a messenger, an ambassador, sent by God to remove the evils of African slavery from among us, and not to scourge and harrass and enslave each other, then the fear of God, and charity among men, and pure and undefiled religion, and the love of peace and justice and truth, and the sense of honor and the pride of patriotism, will heal the nation. I have unshaken faith in the conviction that this was God's own war with evil to free us from negro slavery, that He will not permit it to be made the means of enslaving any portion of the white race, and that He will awfully scourge any who dare to press its consequence to extremes of oppression beyond or beside His own providential designs. If they can only be fully seen and followed, we and our children's children shall be more than compensated; we and they shall be blessed.

"The plantation system prevented, in fact repelled, a dense population; it did not encourage the mechanic arts, mining, manufacturing, ship-building and commerce, nor, indeed, consist with them.

"The first thing to be done by our landholders is to give every encouragement and premium to our own white laborers, and our young men particularly, to turn their attention to agriculture under a system of small farming.

"The young men of the best intelligence must devote their studies to the applied science of agriculture.

"I had rather plough a field for myself than sweep and dust offices and wash spittoons for any one else; it is much more respectable, and certainly more independent. It is well, perhaps, that now young men cannot run to Washington or Richmond for office, and that some of them may be forced to take to the manly and dignified pursuits of agriculture.

"We must invite and tempt the people of the densely populous portions of the United States to come to us. No more as invading armies, but to come and repair the devastations of war. * * * Welcome them to come and pitch their tents and household goods in our pleasant places. If they have conquered us by force of numbers in war, let us conquer them by kindness to make us strong in numbers and in the arts of peace! This would be a reconstruction worthy of a great people!

"None of the other avocations of life can prosper unless the landholders and cultivators of the soil are strengthened by every means within our power.

"The lands must be divided into alternate sections of fifty or one hundred acres, and rented or sold to "cunning artificers" of fortune. If we cannot sell or rent, we must give away parts to make the remainder worth more than the whole"

Singular and Fatal Presentiment.

(From the Nashville Press and Times.)

The strangest case of fatal presentiment we ever heard or read of occurred yesterday about eight miles from town, on the Charlotte pike.

Young Jim Hally, of the Hally family, a boy about sixteen or seventeen years of age, very clever, intelligent and courageous, was working out in a potato patch all day. About 3 o'clock he came into the house very much disturbed in mind, with a somewhat wild expression of face, and sat in an easy chair, in the parlor, and began to rock to and fro furiously. His mother found him in this condition, and anxiously inquired what was the matter. He made no answer, but continued to move backward and forward in the chair. After a while, the father, who had been in town, returned, and was shocked to see his son in so unaccountable condition of mind. He became apprehensive that mental disorder had taken hold of him, as it had his own father upon many occasions. After many unavailing attempts to force the young fellow to speak, he lifted him out of the chair and brought him to the verandah. The storm was coming up at the time, and the lightnings played occasionally in the horizon. Suddenly, as young Hally's eye caught one of the far-off flashes, he jumped to his feet, and throwing up both hands, exclaimed, in a loud voice: "Father, I am going to die," and rushed away to the potato patch where he had been working and took his position under a large tree. The father called for some help, and followed him. Whilst the elder Hally and the hired man were endeavoring to persuade the boy to go back in the house, a flash of lightning came which rent the tree from its topmost branch to the roots. One of the limbs struck the young fellow on the head apparently a slight blow. He fell down and never breathed again. It left nothing but a small black mark on the right temple. He was fair, inclining to sallow complexion, but after the fatal stroke a blush suffused his cheek. The expression of his face was that of one in the possession of serene peace and heartfelt joy.

Southern Emigration.

The Charleston Mercury says that "of all the various modes in which the people of the South are tempted weakly to avoid the ills of their unfortunate situation, instead of meeting them boldly and overcoming them, none is so alluring as emigration. The weary southron, sick of the unceasing conflict with adverse circumstances, casts his longing eyes to some distant shore, where he vainly hopes to re-establish his home, as it was in the ante bellum days."

This is hardly true at the present time, when nearly all of the prominent southern men are resolved to stand by their impoverished section and help restore its former prosperity. At the close of the war, when Mr. Johnson was supposed to be vindictively disposed toward the southern leaders, few of them expected to be allowed to live unmolested in the United States, and schemes of emigration were eagerly advocated. Now, however, when the prominent ex-rebels are not only tolerated but welcomed in the national conventions of both parties; when Lee and Kirby Smith are quietly instructing young men, when Beauregard is managing a railroad, Joe Johnston an express company, Buckner a newspaper, and Wade Hampton his farm, the emigration fever has nearly subsided, and those who sought their fortunes in South America and Mexico are gladly returning to live under the stars and stripes, satisfied that even "an abolition government" is the best on the face of the earth.

A Sensation Gymnast.

The Liverpool Evening Courier gives the following account of the performances of a gymnast who recently appeared in that city: In the sensational character of his performance, Erato literally put into the shade the feats of his predecessors, beating a drum while hanging by the teeth at the height of some forty feet. It may well be questioned whether such an exhibition should be encouraged, or, indeed, allowed at all. The averted faces of many of the female spectators show that the taste for these displays of foolhardiness is not universal, though it is pretty general, and there should certainly be some limit put to these performances. The spiral ascension of Ethardo, the graceful flying trapeze performance of Eugene, the lofty trapeze feats of the Victorellis, the aerial flights of Azella, Pereira and the Farinis, the ceiling walking of Olmar, and the equilibrist performances of Alvante, are all daring in their way, but the scarce suppressed scream of the audience at some of Erato's feats show that, if not a clever gymnast, he is, at least, a more perfect master of sensational recklessness. He is a young man, apparently under thirty years, and like mere of the aspirants after this dubious kind of fame, he is short of stature, but of muscular build. Suspended from the lofty ceiling of the Star Music Hall, about half a yard apart, are two ropes about twelve feet long, each with a loop at the end; it is on these ropes that Erato goes through his break-neck performances. With a foot fixed in each of the loops, and his legs stretched out sideways at right angles with his body, he swings about for some moments; with a foot in one loop and a hand in the other, he turns his body round with singular velocity; then he swings about with his body doubled up into a very small compass; then he hangs by both feet from the loops; while swinging to that he touches the ceiling with his hands; then takes one foot out of the loop and swings while hanging this way, at the same time twisting his free leg round his neck and doing other acrobatic tricks; and afterwards he hangs from one of the loops with his teeth, and beats time on a drum to a popular air played by the band. During the greater part of these performances there is a net stretched across part of the hall, but utterly useless as a protection against accident during some of the feats, and when it would be useful towards the close, it is taken away with the evident intention to add to the sensation. The applause Erato gains is terrific.

ALL prisoners for debt within the jurisdiction of the North German Parliament have been liberated under the authority of the law which came into operation last month.

IN THE

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Daily Prayer Meeting—From 12 M. to 12:30 o'clock at the Methodist Church, Fifth street, next door to GAZETTE office.

The Weather.—The mercury stood at ninety-six degrees in the shade yesterday.

Second Street.—The paving on Second street will be completed and the street opened to travel to-morrow.

Daniel Gilerory was arrested yesterday and fined five dollars by Mayor Drum, for exposing his person on the St. Clair street bridge.

Church Enterprise.—There are at present five churches going up in Allegheny at an estimated cost of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Allegheny Park.—The excavation for the fountain on the East Common, Allegheny City, was commenced a few days ago. It is located in the northeast corner.

Good for the Shingle Business.—It will require nearly fifty-three thousand shingles to cover the roof of the Hand street bridge, which is at present undergoing extensive repairs.

Off the Track.—Yesterday afternoon a locomotive attached to a train of empty freight cars got off the track at the corner of Seventh and Liberty streets. It was put on again without much difficulty.

Coroner's Inquest.—Coroner Clawson held an inquest yesterday morning on the body of Jacob Baker, the boy killed on Sunday evening in East Birmingham by falling in a well. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

No Choice.—The Conferees of the Twenty-Third Congressional District met again yesterday at Freeport. After balloting forty times, without choosing a candidate, they adjourned to meet at the same place on Monday, July 27.

Knocked Down.—Joseph McIntyre made information before Deputy Mayor Owston yesterday, charging Jerome N. Helmold with assault and battery. He alleges that the accused struck him with his fist and knocked him down. Helmold was arrested and held for a hearing.

Sunstroke.—Martin Aesherwood while standing on Butler street, Lawrenceville, on Sunday afternoon, was stricken down with the intense heat. He was carried into Dr. Hanna's office, and after receiving medical attention revived somewhat, and is at present slowly recovering.

Taken to the Poor House.—Green, the insane man, who was picked up in the Third ward, Allegheny, on Sunday and brought to the Mayor's office, was taken yesterday to the City Poor House.

Another insane man, name unknown, was also taken to the County Home.

Alleged Larceny of Lumber.—Patrick Frealey yesterday made information before Alderman McMasters against George Kramer and Hugh Frealey for larceny. He alleges that the defendants took from his premises, in the Ninth ward, a lot of lumber valued at $30. A warrant was issued.

A Street Fight.—Yesterday evening, about five o'clock, a party of men got into a street fight near Shaffer's drove yards, in the Second ward, Allegheny. Two of them, Wm. Sarver and James Sullivan, were arrested and brought to the lock-up, where they each paid a fine of $3.50 and were allowed to depart.

A Colored Difficulty.—Susan Grayson made information before Alderman Thomas yesterday, against her husband, John Grayson, for desertion. At the hearing, however, Susan failed to substantiate her allegations and the accused was discharged. The parties are colored and reside in the Seventh ward.

Abandonment.—Mrs. Evalina Musgrove, residing in Allegheny, made information before Alderman McMasters yesterday against her husband, Frank Musgrove, for abandonment. She alleges that Frank deserted her on the 19th of March, and refuses to live with or give anything toward her support. A warrant was issued.

Foot Crushed.—Yesterday evening about five o'clock, Wm. Slaughter, a resident of Allegheny, in attempting to jump upon a passenger train, near the Federal street depot, missed his footing and fell with one foot on the track, which was run over by several of the cars, crushing and mangling it in a terrible manner. He was conveyed to his residence and a physician summoned, who thinks that amputation will be necessary.

The Lock-Up.—At one o'clock this morning there were ten victims in the lock-up for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Seven out of that number were females, two of whom were young girls between fourteen and fifteen years of age, arrested on a charge of vagrancy, one a girl of seventeen committed on a charge of assault and battery, and four elderly women charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Trial of a New Organ.—The congregation of the First German Evangelical Lutheran Church have purchased a new organ for their house of worship, on High street, from the celebrated organ manufacturer, Pomplitz, of Baltimore. The instrument cost five thousand dollars, and is said to be a very superior one. This afternoon, between the hours of two and four o'clock, it will be tested, and a cordial invitation is extended to all lovers of music.

Church Sociable.—A Sociable was held on Friday evening in the Second Methodist Church, Allegheny, Rev. S. F. Crowther, pastor, which was a very enjoyable affair. At 8 o'clock the friends and members began to gather, and a couple of hours were spent very pleasantly with music and conversation, aided by a liberal supply of refreshments. The company dispersed about ten o'clock, all expressing themselves as highly gratified at the evening's entertainment.

Death from Apoplexy.—Coroner Clawson held an inquest yesterday morning on the body of John Snape, who died suddenly at his residence on Union street, Seventh ward, Allegheny. The deceased it appears had been drinking excessively for several days past, and on Sunday procured a quantity of ale at a tavern near his residence, which he drank. The result was an attack of apoplexy, which it is supposed caused his death. The jury returned a verdict of "death from apoplexy."

House Broke Into.—Chief police Bowden yesterday arrested Reddy McCafferty and Geo. Hall charged with breaking into the house of Rev. Steipel, on Liberty street, Third ward, Allegheny. It is alleged that they broke into the house, and ransacked it thoroughly, getting nothing however for their pains. When arrested they had in their possession a chisel which had been turned and filed into a hook, which seemed well calculated to assist them in their operations. They were locked up and will have a hearing to-day.

Cross Suits.

Francis O'Donnell made information yesterday before Alderman Thomas against William McKenna for surety of the peace. He alleged that McKenna threatened to kick him, and accompanied the threat with some very insulting language. McKenna, on the other hand, made a similar information against O'Donnell, alleging that he threatened to send a shovel through his body, which would certainly have been a very interesting anatomical operation. O'Donnell resides on Forbes street and McKenna on Webster street. Warrants were issued.

Meeting at the "Battery."

A meeting of the Democracy of the city was held last evening at Duffy's hotel, commonly called the "Battery," at the corner of Grant and Webster streets, Fifth ward, (old Third) for the purpose of ratifying the action of the New York Convention.

Almost the entire population, men, women and children, of the "Bull Run" district, were in attendance, attracted, doubtless, by the music of a brass band engaged for the occasion.

The meeting was organized by appointing Alexander McIlwaine President, and a long list of Vice Presidents and Secretaries.

Mr. McIlwaine being called upon made a long windy speech, in which he attempted a justification of slavery, and endeavored to prove the correctness of his position from history, going back to the days of Adam and coming down to the present time. The trip was too long for his hearers, many of whom left in disgust before he arrived at that point in history, most appreciated by modern Democracy, when slavery was established in the colonies. Finding that his hearers did not appreciate history he launched into another channel and took the old thread bare doctrine of States rights, which also failed to create any enthusiasm. Happily for himself and the success of the meeting he remembered that he was addressing a Democratic audience which had assembled to ratify the nominations of Seymour and Blair, and by a most terrible effort managed to create a little excitement.

R. M. Gibson, Esq., was then introduced and addressed the meeting at length. He gave the financial plank in the Democratic platform his entire attention. It was evident from his manner that he is not fully satisfied with the action of the Convention at New York, and consequently his heart is not in the work. His speech, although the best of the evening, was a complete failure in comparison with his efforts on former occasions. He fully endorsed the platform, and especially the "Greenback" doctrine of the Pendletonians, and never once mentioned the names of the candidates nominated.

During the time occupied by Mr. Gibson, Mr. James Irwin who appeared to be a committee of one to secure speakers for the occasion, succeeded in finding an Irishman, who was introduced as Mr. Smithers from St. Louis. Mr. S. was enthusiastically received by the crowd, but the excitement subsided as the speaker proceeded. He opened his remarks by the inquiry, "Who is Frank Blair?" a question he did not attempt to answer, but instead, attempted to tell what Gen. Grant was. He had occupied the stand but a few minutes when it was quite evident that he was not the man they wanted. The Chairman was requested to choke him off by several of the committee of arrangements, but declined to do so. A prominent "Ku-kluxer" who was awaiting his turn to harrangue the multitude, became impatient and very ungerously remarked that "far off cows had long horns in the estimation of some people," to which a gentleman at his elbow replied that "in this case the ears were longer than the horns." Smithers was a failure. The committee evidently thought so; the audience said so in plain terms, and the "committee of one on speakers," was so disgusted that he left the meeting.

A. W. Foster was next introduced, and informed the audience that he was once a Radical, but was now a Democrat. He said the Democrats were going to carry Pennsylvania at the next election, and that they would also carry Allegheny county. He said his principal object in coming to the meeting was to apologize to an Irishman, whom he had contradicted four years since, in a political discussion. The Irishman accepted the apology.

Mr. Cherrington, a gentleman from Italy, was the next speaker. The whole ground had been traversed, he said, by the speakers who preceded him, consequently he did not advance any new ideas.

Wm. Linn, Esq., the champion of "State's Rights" and the right of secession, made the closing address. William didn't say anything that has not been published repeatedly.

The meeting then adjourned.

Final Hearing.

A final hearing of the parties charged with the assault on Balthaven Herbert, at a pic nic on Troy Hill, an account of which we published in the GAZETTE, took place before Mayor Drum yesterday. John Thornton, Fred. Kilean, John Burgess and Levi Hartman, who were not identified at the preliminary examination, were present. A number of witnesses were examined, several of whom testified positively to the presence of Thornton, Kilean and Hartman, and His Honor held them each for trial in the sum of $1,500. As Burgess was not identified he was discharged. Hartman, failing to get bail, was committed, while Thorton and Kilean remain in the lock-up, in accordance with the wishes of their friends, until to-day, when they promise that the required bail will be procured.

Serious Fall From a Roof.

Henry W. Parry, a slate roofer, who has been engaged for the last few days in roofing the residence of S. S. Carrier, Esq., near the second toll gate in Oakland district, fell yesterday from the scaffolding to the ground, a distance of forty feet. He was not noticed falling by any of his fellow-workmen, but a couple of gentlemen who were passing along the road discovered him. When picked up his spine was found to be seriously injured and one shoulder dislocated. Dr. Dickson, the attending physician, considers the case a hopeless one. The young man is unmarried and is a nephew of Thomas W. Parry, slate dealer, who has his establishment on Canal street. His parents reside at Slateington, Lehigh county, Pa.

Found Dead.

About ten o'clock Sunday night Charles Shaffer, a stone mason, who boarded at 151 Ohio street, Allegheny, was found dead in his bed. He complained of being unwell in the evening and retired to bed earlier than usual, and about ten o'clock the lady of the house called at his room to see how he was, when she found him dead. Coroner Clawson held an inquest yesterday morning, when Dr. Hamilton was called to examine the body. He stated to the jury that, in his opinion, death was caused by heart disease. The jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes. The deceased was about twenty-two years of age, unmarried, and has resided in the city three months.

MORTGAGES.

Same day fourteen mortgages were filed of record.

Identification of Stolen Silverware.

The silverware which was found in the possession of Patrick McCloskey, whose arrest we noticed yesterday, has been identified. Yesterday morning John Robinson, Esq., called at the Mayor's office and identified the spoons and forks as his property. Mr. Robinson cannot say how the theft was committed, but states that the property disappeared on Sunday morning from his residence on Pennsylvania avenue. The napkin ring was identified by Mr. Brunot, father of Felix Brunot, Esq., residing on Penn street, who says that a quantity of silverware, including an additional napkin ring and the silver forks, was stolen from his residence by some thief, supposed not to be McCloskey, who has evidently disposed of them. Mr. Brunot desires us to state that if the articles are returned to the Mayor's office in Allegheny he will refund what has been paid for them and ask no questions.

The prisoner is still in the lock-up, and doggedly refuses to give any account of himself. Doubtless a few nights' lodging in his present abode will relieve him of this spirit and make him more communicative.

Election of Teachers.

The following teachers have been elected by the Directors of the Fifth Ward Schools, Allegheny, to serve for the ensuing year:

Grammar Department—Annie Scribner.
Intermediate Department—A. E. Pitcairn.
Second Primary—Sallie Johnson.
First Primary—Lide Cubbage.

By the annexation of Manchester to Allegheny, and the division of the late borough into wards, that portion formerly known as the first precinct became enlarged and is now known as the Fifth ward. The present building being altogether too small a new one is in course of erection, a description of which we published some time since. In the meantime the scholars who cannot find accommodations at the old building will attend the schools of the First, Second and Sixth wards. This arrangement is only a temporary one and will be broken up as soon as the new one is completed.

We deem this explanation necessary to a proper understanding of the apparent deficiency of school privileges in this ward, as shown by the small number of teachers elected.

Sewing Machines as a Matter of Interest.

In visiting the various offices each Agent claims his to be the best, and it sometimes appears hard for buyers to make a choice.

By paying a visit to the Weed office, 112 Grant street, you can see a machine that don't require any side attachments to sell it, such as button-hole or embroidery attachments, &c., which is attached to the inferior Machines to sell them.

Those wanting to buy can see new machines of other makes, taken in at less than half-price, new, in part pay for the Weed Machine.

Still another evidence that there are more Weed Machines sold than all others in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Parties can pay for Weed in monthly payments.

Call on the Agent, R. H. Long, 112 Grant street, and see for yourself.

Pure Sweetmeats.

The lovers of fresh and pure candies and foreign and American sweetmeats will be pleased to learn that Mr. George Beaven, No. 112 Federal street, Allegheny, has just replenished his stock, and offers greater treats than ever to his patrons. Mr. Beaven has long enjoyed high reputation as a caterer to the tastes of the people in this line, and his stock is one of the finest ever opened in either of these cities. He sells nothing but the very purest sweetmeats, having none compounded with dangerous poisons on his shelves and counters. Mr. Beaven has secured and deservedly retains a large trade, and we earnestly commend him to the patronage of our readers. His assortment of foreign fruits, nuts and condiments is also very fine and will repay a purchasing visit.

Interference with an Officer.

J. D. Owens, Clerk of the Market, made information yesterday before Alderman Humbert, charging Joseph Stevenson with interfering with him in the discharge of his duties. He alleges that Stevenson, who is employed at Teel's grocery in the Diamond, threw a market stand, which was in front of the store, into the street. Owens endeavored to put it back, when he was interfered with by Stevenson, for which he makes the information. A hearing was had in the case and the defendant fined twenty dollars and costs, in default of which he was sent to jail. He was afterwards released on the grounds of the commitment being defective.

Delaines.—The best makes at 12½ cents per yard, at Barker & Co.'s Semi-Annual Clearance Sale, 59 Market street.

Most Bitters of the present day that are loudly puffed through the newspapers as having great curative properties are vile compounds and base impositions, containing no medicinal virtues whatever, and are really very poor whisky beverages, and, instead of acting as a stimulant and tonic, have a tendency to weaken the stomach by entirely destroying the coating. The public should therefore be very cautious and purchase none but Roback's Stomach Bitters, which have stood the test as a remedial agent for many years, and are really as their name indicates, a stomach bitters and not a beverage. They combine the properties of the best tonic and a stimulant—a laxative, an efficient and anti-bilious agent and the best stomachic known to the world, and when taken in conjunction with Roback's Blood Pills, are the safest and surest preventive against all bilious derangements, thoroughly regulating the whole system and giving tone to the digestive organs.

They are highly recommended as an invigorating tonic to mothers while nursing, increasing the flow of milk, and for convalescents, to restore the prostration which always follows long-continued sickness, they are unsurpassed. A Strange Romance.

"Evelyn," the New Orleans correspondent of the Mobile Sunday Times, writes: "Something like two years ago, young M—, the son of one of the wealthiest men in Louisiana, fell deeply in love with a young lady of a neighboring parish. His love was returned with warmth, and they were engaged. But now an obstacle came in their way. M—'s father opposed the match. For some time he kept this secret from his fiancee, and meanwhile she was making preparations for her marriage. She was an orphan, but had been left a small property which, valuable before the war, brought but little over $3,000. This she expended upon her trousseau, feeling that as her husband was rich, she had no necessity for saving, and that she should make her appearance worthy of their station. As the time drew near when they were to be united, M— seemed to change toward her, and grew cool and serious. In vain she tried, with all the arts which love could suggest, to learn the secret of the change, but he did not confide in her, and she could only wait and wonder. At last the time fixed for the ceremony came and M—— was forced to make a confession. He said that his father forbade the match; that he had supposed her an heiress when he engaged himself to her, and now he could not marry her against his father's will. The shock which this gave the young girl can be imagined. Naturally one would say that she should have despised him, and felt herself fortunate in making her escape. On the contrary it was then only that she felt how much she loved him. She had given herself without reserve and, so far as she was concerned, she was his forever. For the next year and a half she was in a convent, entirely excluded from the world, but some two months ago she was persuaded to come to this city, and remained here for some two or three weeks. One day she received a letter which seemed to disturb her, and on going to her room later, a friend found her on her knees praying for the man who had deserted her. He was sick in the country, and begged her to come to him. On that very day M.'s father died, and the funeral notice was handed her as she stepped into the carriage to go to the cars. For a week nothing was heard from her, but soon we got the finale of the romance. The girl had gone immediately to M.'s bedside, and found him very ill, attended by his two sisters. He told her that he was dying, and now that his father was gone, wished to make her his wife. They were married. A will was made by him giving her one-half of his large fortune, the other half to his two sisters, and the next day he followed his father from earth. Contrary to the advice of her friends, the young maiden widow announces her intention of retiring to the convent for life.

An Unpremeditated Joke.

For some time past a number of boys have been seen walking about the streets of the city, each bearing upon his shoulder a rudely constructed transparency—brilliantly lighted up after dark—on which is blazoned the name of one of the theatres, together with certain dramatic intelligence displayed in fancy paint for the enlightenment of visitors from the rural districts, who may chance to be strolling around in search of the elephant or any reliable information touching his haunts or whereabouts. Yesterday evening, just after dark, the sexton of one of the most fashionable churches of the city was engaged in sweeping out the building, and the doors were left open. While this work was going on, one of the boys in question came along, and, feeling fatigued from his tramp through the hot and dusty streets, seated himself on the steps of the church, and was soon fast asleep, with his lighted transparency leaning against the door-post. And every person who passed that way within the next hour or so was assured by the transparency, in fiery letters, that could be read at the distance of two hundred yards, that—"This is the Only Theatre now Open in the City."—Louisville Journal.

A FEW weeks since a man mounted upon a skeleton of a horse met a gentleman who was riding a superb animal upon one of the bridges in Paris that cross the Seine. The gentleman laughed at the poor beast, when his rider offered to bet him a thousand francs that he could not do with his horse what he could do with his poor beast. The bet was accepted. The poor man lifted his horse upon the parapet and shoved him into the river.

Arrest of Decay in Dead and Living Matter.

The simultaneous experiments of scientific men in various countries for the discovery of the best means for embalming human bodies and arresting the progress of decay, have already produced favorable results that promise still more satisfactory discoveries in the future. The subject seems to have been first brought prominently before the attention of the modern world during our civil war, under the instincts of natural affection for the preservation of the bodies of our soldiers pending their transportation to points where relatives and friends could bestow upon them the last sad offices of duty and affection. In most cases only immediate or temporary results were looked for or expected. A process that would arrest decomposition for a few weeks or months was all that was attempted. A revival of the old Egyptian system that would preserve bodies for centuries was scarcely thought of. But the results attained stimulated scientific research, and there is now a probability that means may be discovered for the preservation of human bodies from decay that will prove more effective, simple and durable than the old Egyptian process of embalming.

Experiments have been made in this city, recently, which indicate a vast improvement upon the systems adopted during the war. It has been found possible to preserve bodies during a period of several months, without exclusion from the air, and to render them perfectly inoffensive and harmless. This art has been brought to great perfection in Italy. A letter from Florence, published in the Nation, gives a very interesting account of the new system discovered by Professor Marini.

This system extends to the restoration of mulmified bodies, or portions of them to their original appearance and color, and to the arrest of the progress of decay. The foot of an Egyptian mummy is exhibited, one-half of which retains its mummefied condition, while the other half seems to have been restored to its original color, form; flexibility and freshness. The limbs of the mummies are shown with attestations from Dr. Nelson, the famous French surgeon, and other high surgical authorities, to the effect that the restoration to all the conditions attending a fresh human subject have been fully attained. This is scarcely less wonderful than the original preservation of these mummies for a score of centuries. The Egyptian embalmers never could have anticipated that it was reserved for a new generation of men to restore to their pristine freshness and flexibility the subjects of their art, so as to present to new generations and races of men all the appearance of their living organization.

The completion of Professor Marini's discovery is attested by the fact that he has preserved for a year the body of Prof. Martini, of Cagliari, of which four months after death a photograph was taken, which seemed to his friends a perfect portrait as he appeared in life, showing that the tissues and organization can be made to retain for an indefinite period, all the freshness of a body newly deceased.

These results are attained by the immersion of the body in a vegetable liquid, the composition of which Prof. Marini will only disclose under certain conditions. But these discoveries upon the means of arresting the decay of animal matter promise to be attended with the most beneficial results to the living. It is found that cancer, ulcerous and gangrenous afflictions, and other sores and wounds, may be cicatrised and healed by immersion in the liquid. It is also found that this liquid is useful for the preservation of animal food. Petrifications of portions of the human body and inferior animals are also made, under the most curious conditions.

Professor Marini is still engaged in his discoveries, which he is far from regarding as perfect. He is making new experiments. It is in their application to the living organization, with a view of arresting disease, that he looks for the results that promise the largest benefits to humanity.—N. Y. Advertiser.

Porte Crayon.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune thus describes and compliments David Hunter Strother, the "Porte Crayon" of Harper's Monthly:

He is fifty years of age, a singular-looking man, with a Polish face and straggling white beard, yet with two children around his feet, the youngest but a few months old. He has a keen scintillant eye, a gristly body, pretty well emaciated and wearied out in the war, and his eyes have suffered by drawing upon the shining surface of boxwood so that he has given up all work but writing and sketching upon paper.

I found him in his library, his early oil paintings surrounding the room, and scattered among his books sketches of the John Brown raid, the most valuable reminiscences extant of that border warfare. His library is perhaps the most perfect in Virginia, in its Colonial and local State collections. He is the most conscientious designer in the country, not so exquisite, perhaps, as Darley, but Darley long ago resigned individualism for commerce, and he has made a fortune. Porte Crayon's larger and better sketches have never been published; they are studies of native character, the mountain surveyor, the Chesapeake skipper, the negro patriarch, instinct with human suggestion from the hair to the hands, and never exaggerated, often humorous, and always involving some national or domestic sentiment.

The Moon and the Weather.

If any marked connection existed between the state of the air and the aspect of the moon, it must inevitably have forced itself unsought upon the attention of meteorologists. In the weekly return of births, deaths, and marriages, issued by the Registrar General, a table is given, showing all the meteorological elements for every day in the year, and a column is set apart for noting the changes and positions of the moon. These reports extend backward nearly a quarter of a century. Here, then, is a repertory of date that ought to reveal at a glance any such connection, and would certainly have done so had it existed. But no constant relation between the moon columns and those containing the instrument readings has ever been traced. Our meteorological observatories furnish continuous and unbroken records of atmospheric variations, extending over long series of years; these afford still more abundant means for testing the validity of the lunar hypothesis. The collation has frequently been made for special points in the inquiry, and certainly some connection has been found to obtain between certain positions of the moon in her orbit and certain instrumental averages; but so small are the effects traceable to lunar influences that they are almost inappreciable among the grosser irregularities that arise from other and as yet unexplained causes.—Once a Week.

NEWS comes from Paris of war in Mabille! The ladies have had a small revolution and the proprietor of the garden is in dire trouble. It arose with Louise, the dancer. One fine moonlight night when the band had done the "Tea Blossom" quadrille and "Bridge of Sighs" polka, the gentlemen forming the musical body dispersed to their homes somewhat earlier than usual; the heat had been excessive and the cancan very wild. The dancers who felt inclined to spend the night out of doors protested against the departure of the band, and the cavaliers forming a gentleman's chain, carried Louise, their idol, high in triumph over every obstacle, and did not allow her to alight on any other spot than the grand kettle-drum in the orchestra. On this worthy instrument did she and a few others perform feats and antics until the parchment fell in. Of course M. Mabille was greatly incensed; he thinks youth a very profitable article, but objects to their vagaries on his drums, and without the slightest compunction he turned Louise out. Since then, Mabille has been almost deserted; all the lady's adorers are determined never to return to those lighted groves until this cancan diva is readmitted. M. Mabille is disconsolate; he should have had his drums mended in private.
